Editorial

I have found it to be a great pleasure and a most interesting experience to serve again, albeit temporarily, with UNFICYP as the MPIO. Two years ago I had the privilege to command the Scout Car Squadron under General Greindl when Brigadier Hewson was the Deputy Chief of Staff. Although almost everyone else has changed, the importance of the UNFICYP task has not. I have found everyone as dedicated as before to that delicate task of maintaining the peace on this Island. I trust this issue of the magazine also reflects this.

Coming, as I have done, from the British Sovereign Bases I would like to remind all members of UNFICYP that the British Sovereign Bases maintain a keen interest in the work of UNFICYP, if only because of our continued operational assistance and logistic support to your tasks in Cyprus. I hope, in the future, to co-operate with Major MacArthur, the new MPIO, in telling you more about that assistance through the pages of this magazine.

Finally, I would like to thank everyone who has made my short stay so pleasurable. In particular I am very grateful to Mrs Nield, Sergeant Hodgetts, and Driver Edwards for their support and help.

Seen on a church notice announcing hymns for forthcoming services!
"Immortal love, forever free."

The name of the church will NOT be disclosed!

JIM DAVIDSON ENTERTAINS UNFICYP
On 16 April the well known British entertainer Jim Davidson gave a free show for charity to 750 members of the United Nations at the Municipal Theatre in Nicosia. Mr Davidson was in Cyprus on holiday and fulfilling a promise he made on a previous visit to the British Forces in Cyprus and Lebanon when time prevented a show in Nicosia. After the show Jim Davidson (centre) was entertained at the Warrant Officers' and Sergeants' Mess in the UNPA where he is seen with Sergeant Mick Mister and Staff Sergeant Brummie Holmes both of Squadron RCT, the UNFICYP Transport Squadron.

AUSTCIVPOL TEACHES THE YOUNGSTERS ROAD SAFETY RULES

By Station Sgt Gary Brown

No doubt each one of us has experienced, as either the driver or passenger in a motor vehicle, an 'almost' or near miss accident involving a person on a bicycle. When the near miss involves a child riding the bicycle then the shock is even greater.

Generally children have no normal training when it comes to their riding a bicycle nor are they versed in the rules of the road. They are rarely made aware of the dangers that they face as a road user or of the risk they take riding a machine that is in poor or even dangerous condition.

The above points when put together with young riders from different countries and differing road rules prompted a number of parents and other people to think that it was high time for some training to be given for the bicycle riding children of personnel of the UNPA.

Really it wasn't us, it was that lot down there.

A selection of the crowd watching the display.

So over a period of 3 days Senior Sergeants Kevin Smith and Rob Aitken of AUSTCIVPOL, after the normal days duties, gathered together a group of children of varying ages and nationalities in an outdoor classroom and explained to the young ones the rules of the road, bicycle safety, bicycle maintainence, hand signals and the like.

The children rode through a display of traffic cones, through intersections, braked at certain signals, underwent oral quizzes on the traffic rules and on the maintainence of their own bicycles, from the tiny one with the training wheels to the 'racing' variety. Both Kevin and Rob feel the sessions were accepted very well by the children, that the children put a lot of effort into the sessions and as a result went away better riders.

A number of responsible people ensured that these sessions were held. The main aim was met, teaching children road safety on bicycles.

84 in 84 on 8-4-84

By Flight Lieutenant Nick Hall

Just in case you are wondering what the headline above is all about, and if you haven't seen the January issue of the Blue Beret, then perhaps I should tell you that on 84 Squadron we are continuing to celebrate "Our Year", which includes 12 years of working in support of UNFICYP. Sunday 8-4-84 was obviously a day not to be missed and we therefore held an Open Day for our families so that they could look around the Squadron as well as see some of the other activities of RAF Akrotiri.

Unfortunately, the weather was very unkind to us for after a few weeks of promising summer sunshine the day started out cold and there were plenty of heavy showers around; sideshows had to be hastily covered up whilst people sought shelter from the rain, but luckily no-one complained of watered-down beer! The clouds cleared sufficiently in time for the highlight of the day, however, and Squadron Leader Bob King's Wessex flying display delighted everyone, including the children.

Also on display were a team of Royal Air Force Police Dogs and their handlers, several items of equipment (including a Scorpion light tank) brought along by 34 Squadron Royal Air Force Regiment, a Hawk aircraft from the visiting Royal Air Force Aerobatic Team, the Red Arrows, and an ex-84 Whirlwind helicopter.

The children, too, had worked hard for the open day, for we had organised a painting competition for them and they brought in so many entries that the judging was extremely difficult; Adam Trigg won the under-6 section, Anita Pile the 6-12, and Mandy Gibbons took the over 12's prize.

Despite the unusual weather, the day proved to be a tremendous success and we all owe our thanks to Flight Lieutenant Keith McGuire and all those who helped him organise it.

SCOUT CAR SQUADRON IN SPRING TIME

By Capt Mark Ridley

The Squadron is now half way through its emergency tour with UNFICYP and, for one reason or another, is now well known within the Force.

The last month has, as usual, been a busy one. The major event was the BRITCON Medal parade which took place in the middle of March. Constant rehearsals in switching lights on and off, starting up and switching off, and driving past, led to what was a memorable evening. The Squadron drove past the saluting base at forty miles per hour and only a large tube of super glue prevented the Squadron Leader from being blown out of his turret. The "charge" started after the Regimental call was sounded by two of our trumpeters who flew out from England for the occasion.

As usual we have had numerous visitors, our principle official ones were Major General C J Rougier Director of Army Training and the Commander British Forces Cyprus, Major General Sir Desmond Langley, both of whom toured some of the line with the sabre troops. We have also been inundated with press visits from England, namely BBC Radio Stoke, the Stoke Evening Sentinel and the Wolverhampton Express and Star.

Militarily the most note-worthy event was the Force Reserve exercise on the 5th and 6th April held in sector 5. The exercise involved firing of weapons on both Pyla and Dhekelia ranges and this was followed by an excellent barbecue prepared by the Squadron cooks. The exercise was concluded with a successful night move along the patrol track.

On the recreational side the most important event has been the launching of the Squadron Leader's yacht at Larnaca, where he now spends much of his time adventure training.

Next month again looks busy and will include a Squadron Open Day on Saturday 12th May at Prince William Camp to which we hope many UN personnel and their families will come.

UNFICYP'S LEADERSHIP IN CYPRUS

Many members of newly arrived contingents to UNFICYP will not be familiar with the background of the civilian and military leadership of our Peacekeeping Force. To assist you in this regard, and to help you better understand your information we provide a profile of the Acting Representative of the Secretary-General, Mr James Holger, and the Force Commander, Major-General G.G. Greindl.

MAJOR GENERAL G. G. GREINDL FORCE COMMANDER UNFICYP

Major-General Gunther Greindl, who was appointed Commander of the United Nations Peace-Keeping Force in Cyprus (UNFICYP) on 1 March 1981, was born in Ried, Austria, on 18 March 1939.

Observer Force (UNDOF) in April 1979, and became its Officer-in-Charge on 21 April 1979.

On 1 December 1979 he was promoted to Major-General and was appointed Commander of UNDOF.

SCIENCE AS A HOBBY

By Capt R Manzl

Many of our UN-soldiers here at AUSCON Sec Six are experts. They have a lot of knowledge and skill in many different branches. But not only on duty can one find specialists with extraordinary abilities, it is also amazing to see how much knowledge is bound up with the different kinds of hobbies they have.

As examples I want to introduce to you two of our hobby-specialists today. Both have made scientific matters their hobby and are very professional experts. It is always a surprise to find such hidden treasures in our battalion. They are shining examples for their comrades to show them how to spend spare time with interesting hobbies.

WO 1 Alfred PICHLER Deputy Leader ATHENA. Expert in mineralogy and geology.

He has been collecting and determining rare rocks and minerals for almost 15 years. For this reason he made adventurous travels throughout the whole of Europe and the Near East. Also here in Cyprus he was successful. In abandoned mines he found very beautiful crystals and scientifically precious minerals (Pyrits and Gypsum crystals). Now his problem is, how to get it home without overloading the plane...?

WO 1 Manfred, GRUBERBAUER Signal Rear Link, is a specialist in all kinds of military decorations and medals. Besides that he really is an expert in the special field of the historical background of his collection. Not an every-day hobby but he likes Cyprus because where else could he find so many more different kinds of uniform.

BIG BROTHER GIVES WAY TO YOUNGER BROTHER

By Lt. Andersson

We live in a small world. And it is definitely not big enough for the Kihl brothers to go separate ways. Anders Kihl was Deputy Commander of the last SWEDCON battalion. When this is published the name of the new Swedish Deputy Commander will still be Major Kihl, but now his first name is Johan.

The careers of the two brothers are similar. They started with the same regiment and they have both worked at the Chief of Army Staff, Anders on training and Johan on organisation and equipment. And now they have both been on UN-duty. "Strange enough neither my brother nor myself applied for the Deputy Commander's job. We both applied for the job of Senior Operations Officer, but for different reasons we ended up as the Deputy Commander", says Anders Kihl. Their reason for applying for UN service was the same. "When you are working on the staff it is necessary to get out into the real world for some of the time, if you hope to be in charge of a regiment sometime in the future", says Johan. "Besides that I think all officers enjoy working with soldiers. That's why we joined the army in the first place".

Fate has given Johan an excellent start in his job in Cyprus. "As my predecessor's brother everyone seems to remember me immediately. I never understood this was something peculiar until my reconnaissance trip along with the other officers in key positions in the new Swedish battalion", says Johan Kihl. "But now everyone seems to have a very positive attitude from the start." Succeeding his brother also has another advantage. "It is a challenge. I am aware that Anders has done a very good job here and I don't intend to be inferior to him, even though he is my big brother."

"Here you are. Read and learn". Deputy Commander Anders Kihl handing over some of the papers his brother Johan has to go through before he takes over.

DANCON MARCH

By Major H L C Schmidt

Photographs by Pte P H Hansen

The DANCON MARCH was originally launched in 1972 with 26 participants from the Danish Contingent. Through the following years it has rapidly grown to the big event which it is now.

The DANCON 40 MARCH took place on 24-25 MAR and 07-08 APR 84. Over the two week-ends a total of 534 and 519 received the DANCON MARCH MEDAL or a Silver Number corresponding to the marches accomplished.

The whole idea behind the DANCON Marches is for each individual to complete two marches each of 25 kilometres within 7 hours on each of the two days. For some the pleasure is just to complete the two marches; for others it becomes a competition to be faster than others or just to improve their own personal time. Either way the event has that essential ingredient of being fun, with the added benefit of physical fitness.

THE UNFICYP ORIENTEERING COMPETITION

The UNFICYP orienteering competition was dominated by the SWEDCON team. This is perhaps not so very strange. In Sweden orienteering is a very common sport, but to many members of UNFICYP it is an unusual way of getting exercise.

About 60 competitors took part on a very sunny day at Dhekelia.

The results were:

Class A - 11km

1. Pte Fransson SWEDCON
2. Lt Fors SWEDCON
3. 2/Sgt Scheibenreif AUSCON

Class B - 6.9km

1. Maj Kihl SWEDCON

Class D - 4.9km

2. LCpl Calder 9 Signal Sqn
3. Cpl Abercrombie 9 5 Signal Sqn.

POACHERS PROGRESS

By Lt Townley

The Poachers are now "old hands" in Sector 2 and are into the last half of their tour. We still continue to work and play hard, and the last four weeks have seen our Medal Parade, participation in a variety of sports and somehow time to enjoy ourselves.

The programme of visits to the Battalion has been particularly full and has included the Commander-In-Chief UKLF, General Sir Frank Kitson, Commander British Forces Cyprus, Major General Sir Desmond Langley, our Brigadier Johnny Ricketts, Brigade Commander in the United Kingdom and the House of Commons Defence Committee. Of particular interest to us was the further strengthening of our County links by the visits of the Mayors of Lincoln and Leicester. The Mayor of Northampton is due to visit us in May and this will complete the set.

On the sporting side the last month has seen the Battalion win the British Army Novice Boxing Competition, a feat we have been celebrating ever since and will continue to do so for a long time!

In conclusion we look forward to the improving weather of the last two months of our tour, which should give us just enough time to get a respectable tan!

After weeks of preparation and anticipation, the first 135 members of the First Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry arrived at Larnaca airport via a Canadian Forces Boeing 707 on March 30, 1984.

A parade was held at Wolseley Barracks on April 8 to officially hand over responsibility for sector four from 2RCR to 1PPCLI. The Commander of UNFICYP, Major-General Greindl was the Reviewing Officer and oversaw the signing of the handover documents.

Lt Col Aitchison greets Lt Col Kempling. "Boy, are we glad to see you".

Enjoying life.

The last remaining Royals departed on April 11 and the hand-over was complete. The departing Royals were living proof of the old saying "There's no place like home", as they bounded up the steps to board their homeward bound 707.

The Commanding Officer and all ranks of 1 PPCLI wish to thank the members of UNFICYP that have given us such a warm welcome. We look forward to making many new acquaintances during our tour.
